RIP KING KERLS

BY PETER CORNWALL

He was known as Knuckles. Or Kerls. But, to most South Australians, Neil Kerley was the King. That was how big an impact Kerley had on SA football.

Kerley, who died on Wednesday in a car crash near his Walker Flat home, aged 88, was an Australian football colossus pretty much since he debuted for West Adelaide in 1957. A larger-than-life personality he was rarely out of the limelight over seven decades as a player, coach, administrator, media personality and a passionate ambassador for our great game and our great State.

He was a wonderful, inspirational leader – and from an early age, captain-coaching West Adelaide to the premiership in 1961 in his first year in charge at just 27. He had a knack of lifting clubs in meteoric fashion, taking South Adelaide from bottom to top in his first year as Panthers captain-coach in 1964. His personality was so strong, his aura so immense, some officials did not know how to handle him or possibly felt threatened by him. Just as he had played the game on the field, he would never take a backward step and his stints at West and South in the 1960s were cut short because of this strength of character. It also made him an integral member of SA's State teams over 32 games, in many fierce battles with the Big V and as skipper in six seasons.

West and South took many years to recover from parting ways with Kerley – in fact the Bloods had to bring him back as coach in the early 1980s to claim their next flag, in 1983. South has not won a premiership since. But these clubs' loss was Glenelg's gain as the Tigers lured Kerley to the Bay in 1967. Glenelg had been a basket case of SA footy, with just one premiership in 46 years and was wooden spooner when he arrived. He hauled the Bays into the finals in his first year and his players quickly realised the extent of his single-minded determination and toughness. Kerley played on against Central at the Bay in 1968 knowing he had suffered a broken jaw in a collision just before half-time. Kerley told Laurie Rosewarne to "get a couple of packets of chewies off the head trainer and chew them up for me". His jaw held together and 'protected' by a half-chewed ball of gum Kerley, according to Merv Agars in The Advertiser, "tore into and through packs and pulled down strong marks" to be one of the best players on the ground. Because of his hardness not all footy fans realised how skilful Kerley was but in his 308-game career he won five club champion awards and twice ranked in the top three for the Magarey Medal.

Kerley, who lifted Glenelg to its drought-breaking premiership of 1973, encouraged attacking footy and in 1975 the Tigers booted a staggering record 49.23 in a 238-point shellacking of Central District at the Bay. He never shied away from any challenge, also lifting West Torrens and Central in stints as coach and playing a key role in the early days of the Crows as football manager.

There was a genuine outpouring of grief through SA and Victoria after the tragic passing of Kerley. The words 'star' and 'champion' are used far too freely in footy circles these days. But Kerls was a genuine legend. RIP the King.

MATCH PREVIEWS

BY PETER CORNWALL

GENELG V ADELAIDE

It's never just about one player but all eyes will be on Brett Turner when the Crows face the Tigers at the Bay. Turner picked up a stunning 38 disposals and booted four goals when these sides faced off in Round 3. Glenelg won by 15 points and Turner just might have been the difference. Playing for Glenelg. Now, 11 weeks later, he will be playing for the Crows against the Tigers. Picked up in the AFL's mid-season rookie draft, Turner deserves a shot at the top level but it's incredible his return from a foot injury should likely come when these top-three rivals face off. In an era in which top-level sport seems to centre around depriving the opposition of anything and everything, Glenelg has earned praise for its remarkable show of compassion in allowing a player it lifted to the cusp of AFL his first shot at his dream. Glenelg CEO Justin Scripps said the Bays made the agreement, which is required under current regulations, "after considerable deliberation and consultation within our footy department". In returning to the days of genuine sporting ideals, Scripps said "the club wants to support Brett to return to peak fitness in the SANFL and reach his dream of playing AFL football". The Tigers would undoubtedly have been buoyed that, despite being the hardest hit of SANFL clubs in this dreaded draft – having lost Turner along with key defender Sam Durdin to Carlton – they have won all three games since, showing they are still very much in premiership calculations. But, understandably, if it ends up being all on the line in a Crows-Tigers final this year, it seems likely Turner's availability will be looked at all over again.

CENTRAL V SOUTH

When these sides met in the opening round of the season the game was up in the air until the siren sounded 30 minutes into the last quarter, South winning by five points. And it seems the return clash at Elizabeth will be another hard-fought, down-to-the-wire contest. It's a critical game for South if it is to stay in the hunt for finals after being surprisingly swept aside by the Crows last week. Long-time SANFL scribe Warren Partland noted in the Sunday Mail an "overuse of handball, dropped marks, missed targets and a complete lack of intensity" from South as the Crows kicked away. It was unusual for a side coached by Jarrad Wright, who accepted responsibility, telling Partland: "It is my job to get the boys prepared to execute on game day and I was not able to do that this week." Actually, it's up to the players to accept responsibility for that, so it will be interesting to see how they react.

The problem is they are facing a Bulldogs line-up that has turned their season around and will be a tough match-up. After a stunning 35-point win against back-to-back premiers the Eagles they missed the start against top side North, conceding the first six goals, before fighting it out tooth and nail in a 38-point loss. Coach Paul Thomas said the first 12 minutes were "a bit of a punch in the face to the players and the coaches and we needed to respond and I thought we did". Central has been doing that lately so, if the Panthers aren't prepared this week, beware.

NORTH V PORT

The Roosters clearly had something to say. After a two-point loss at the hands of South ended their run of seven successive wins, they had six goals on the board against Central before fans had opened up their Footy Budget or taken their first bite from their pie. Jacob Surjan's side seems to have an ability to flick the switch and kick a run of goals to take the game away from opponents and it was game over after 12 minutes at the Ponderosa. There are players racking up serious numbers in North's dangerous midfield and Aaron Young booted five goals to round off a remarkable game in which he earned 32 touches and a whopping 12 clearances, while ball magnet Harrison Wigg had 37 disposals and Sam McInerney continued his remarkable rebirth with 27 possessions and 14 marks.

It's been a tough time for Port and it was caught short with only eight AFL-listed players in a 39-point loss to Glenelg, with injuries and Covid protocols forcing ruck coach Matthew Lobbe to make an unexpected return. When Lobbe kicked a goal to start the third quarter the Magpies were in front and they continued to throw themselves into the contest, finishing level with the Bays in clearances and winning the tackle count 80-59. If ever there's someone who leads the way in that regard, it's Nick Moore. He had a remarkable 14 tackles against the Tigers and he leads the SANFL in the category, with 89 in 10 games. It's the sort of workrate that will slow down North's ability to kick quick goals.

STURT V WEST

13 April 1996. It's doesn't sound like it would be a particularly historic SANFL date. You wouldn't have thought a Round 3 win against West could possibly rank up there with any of Sturt's 15 premiership triumphs but Blues coach of the time Phil Carman recalled many years later: "The day we ended the drought it was like winning a grand final. It was huge for everybody ... going back to the club that night and celebrating was sensational." Carman, who had an unforgettable career in the VFL and SANFL, said his greatest footy memory was lifting Sturt out of the wilderness after the club had almost been forced to close its doors in 1995 when it lost every game. By Round 3 of the '96 season Sturt had lost 26 games in a row, its previous win 602 days before, against Central in Round 23, 1994. But the Blues had been getting closer. And West had lost its two games to start the 1996 season.

So, while the boot is on the other foot, there are similarities as these clubs prepare to face off in 2022. West has lost 24 games in a row. But Brad Gotch's men, desperate not to be the first side since Sturt to go through a season without a win, are getting closer. And the Blues have won just one of their past five games and have lost their past two, against Glenelg and Norwood. It's not going to be easy but the Bloods might reckon they owe the Blues one. They have lost their past 13 games against Sturt and last year were kept to a miserable 0.6 at Richmond. But the Bloods, who haven't won since May 1 last year – 427 days ago – led the Eagles by 17 points late in the second quarter before falling 20 points short last week, Gotch noting: "For the fifth straight week we put ourselves in a genuine winning position but just were not able to sustain it for the full four quarters. We are clearly showing that it's not far away if we continue to stay strong together." Mattner lamented of Sturt's loss against the Redlegs, "our first 10 minutes were okay but for 60-70 minutes in the middle of the game, we were no good," noting "we didn't play Sturt footy". Both sides face the same challenge – playing four quarters of good football.

EAGLES V NORWOOD

What a huge difference an outstanding ruckman can make. There's no doubt the Eagles' Jarrad Redden has had a big say in his side snaring back-to-back premierships. And Norwood has a matchwinning ruckman who is showing he can lift the Redlegs to great heights. After Harry Boyd played another strong game in Norwood's critical win against Sturt, coach Jade Rawlings said: "There was some narrative in the off-season around 'where is our ruckman?'. We said, 'he's here and he's a very good one.'" He sure is. Boyd has won the most hit-outs in the league with 391 in 11 games (average 36 per game) and had a strong game leading SA's ruck in its hard-fought win against WA in Perth in May. "Harry is one of our most driven, most professional players and really lifts his teammates," Rawlings said. Recruited from Shepparton, Boyd had a strong season last year but he has now taken his game to another level, also leading the SANFL in clearances, averaging seven a game. Redden has been restricted by injury to five games but he is averaging 30 hit-outs and collected 36 and chipped in with a goal as the Eagles overcame a strong West challenge last week. The Eagles blew the game open with four quickfire goals late in the third term, giving club favourite Joseph Sinor reason to celebrate his 100th game. Who celebrates today may well be decided in ruck.

INDIGENOUS CELEBRATION

BY PETER ARGENT

There's an abundance of First Nation talent to admire across five Indigenous Round games this weekend. And Roosters rookie Nigel Lockyer epitomises the excitement, athleticism and skills these players bring to SANFL footy.

Spectacular-marking Alice Springs product Lockyer has been one of the shining lights of the competition, exploding onto the scene with North Adelaide after joining from Rovers Football Club.

Lockyer, 23, last season gained a taste of SANFL through the successful Redtails program, playing five games in North's reserves. It was a year that earmarked Lockyer as an emerging talent, winning the Minahan Medal as fairest and most brilliant in the Central Australian league. Redtails Football Club, inaugurated and run by Rob Clarke, incorporates the Right Tracks program and was created to drive change in the Central Australia community. It is centred around strong pathways in behaviour, job readiness, healthy living and bridging the gap, along with giving footballers the opportunity to play at elite levels. Ian McAdam, younger brother of North Adelaide 1980 best and fairest Greg and Central's '89 Magarey Medallist Gilbert, runs the Right Tracks program.

"The program has been unreal for me and played a huge part in getting me to where I am now, playing high-level SANFL football," Lockyer, a premiership player for Rovers in 2020, told The Advertiser's Andrew Capel. "It wouldn't be doable for me without that program. It was hard growing up there (Alice Springs) in a pretty bad environment with drug and alcohol abuse where there was a general lack of motivation. I've made some bad decisions, dropping out of school and giving footy away for a year, but this program helped me get back on track and find the motivation to move forward."

Frank Szekely, Kym LeBois and Keanu Miller are other Indigenous talents in league ranks at Prospect, while teenage defender Blayne O'Loughlin is pushing for senior selection. North's Indigenous guernsey has been designed by former Roosters Mat and Joel Campbell, who hail from Federals Football Club in Alice Springs.

Top-of-the-table North tackles Port Adelaide in a clash that showcases plenty of Indigenous talent. Port features a third generation of the Burgoyne clan with Jase and top-up player Trent. Their grandfather Peter snr played two league games in 1977, while dad Peter and his brother Shaun wore Magpies jumpers before moving into AFL ranks.

Anthony 'Rabbs' Wilson, a Port under-18 premiership player, has come full circle and is wearing the prison-bars jumper again. He was drafted to the Crows after playing a key role in Norwood's 2014 premiership success. After a season with Adelaide, he returned to The Parade and played 91 games with the Legs, before spending the '21 season in amateurs because of business commitments. The opportunity to return to Alberton persuaded quicksilver Wilson to return to SANFL football.

The Bulldogs host the Panthers at the Ponderosa and Isaiah Dudley can hardly wait. The diminutive but dynamic teenager made his league debut for Central in Round 10 against Port. "It's so special to be involved in the SANFL Indigenous Round," said Dudley, who gave us an early glimpse of the Doggies' Indigenous jumper. "I am proud to represent and honour my heritage.

I always looked up to my uncles – Gavin, Shaun and Peter. But my hero was always uncle Harry Miller, my mum Karisma's brother."

Jordan Tippins, a Power Aboriginal programs captain in 2020, debuted for the Dogs in Round 1 but suffered a long-term knee injury the following week. And Jordan Dorizzi, an athletic 193cm forward, has played three league games this season.

South midfielder Hayden Sampson is averaging 20 disposals a game this year and his run and carry will be crucial on Elizabeth Oval. Kim Kantilla showed some flashes of brilliance for the Panthers in four games before suffering a broken wrist in Round 8, kicking off his career with three goals against the Crows.

Big forward Abaina 'Abe' Davis knows a thing or two about kicking goals – he's third on SANFL's goalkicking list with 28 – and he will be keen to bag a few as Sturt hosts West at Unley. He's had a pair of six-goal hauls this year, against Norwood and in a strong win against the Crows – and brother Ben.

"During my couple of years at Sydney I was given strong cultural leadership from the likes of Lewis Jetta and Goodesy (Adam Goodes)," Abe said. "They reinforced the pride in your heritage and the importance of celebrating it. They were wonderful role models in my early journey. I like to reiterate the need to continue this celebration of our many First Nations cultures."

Three of the Lochowiak siblings are also in the Double Blues' senior program, oldest brother Mihail, 22, second sibling Anzac, who turned 21 in early June, and the younger, 19-year-old Jacob. Mihail made a handful of league appearances in 2019-20, while Anzac made his league debut last season but is sidelined with a knee injury. Jacob, who was still playing college football in '21, is pushing for his league debut.

Westies' Ken Karpany, 24, a Riverland product, has played 72 league games for the Bloods.

The Eagles' Connor McLeod, son of one of the greatest Indigenous footballers of all time, dual Norm Smith Medal-winning Crow Andrew, is on the brink of kicking off his SANFL league career. Playing in the midfield in the Round 9 reserves game against South, in the wet, Connor earned 30 disposals and laid a staggering 22 tackles.

Glenelg hosts a Crows side that this year has featured Torres Strait Islander Ben Davis, North Adelaide recruit Tariek Newchurch – who bagged four goals last week against South – and Wayne Milera, while top-up player Isaya McKenzie is an old favourite of Central supporters. Glenelg has foundation Redtail Gibson Turner on its list.

SANFL has a wonderful roll call of fabulous Indigenous footballers. The names roll off the tongue – West's Bertie Johnson, Port's Richie Bray and South's David 'Soapy' Kantilla were Indigenous trailblazers as premiership players in the early 1960s, while Sturt rover Roger Rigney stamped his name on the game forever with five in a row from 1966-70. Then there were 200-gamers in Central District's inspirational Sonny Morey and electrifying Double Blues dasher Michael 'Flash' Graham. Mercurial Bulldogs forward Wilbur Wilson is recalled with fondness by all SANFL fans, while family names like McAdam and Motlop bring back myriad memories.

The roll call of 2022 enhances this great tradition.

TORRENS UNIVERSITY SA UNDER-18s

BY ZAC MILBANK | TWITTER @ZACMILBANK

It was a case of so near, yet so far as South Australia's Torrens University under-18 team just missed its chance to make it two wins from two games.

SA, having kicked off the national championships with a 37-point win against the Allies, let slip a golden chance to beat Victoria Country, its inaccurate goalkicking in the last quarter proving costly in a two-points loss at Thebarton Oval. SA now hits the road to face Victoria Metro in Geelong on July 17 and Western Australia in Perth on July 24.

After opening brightly against the Allies to establish a 19-point lead at the first change, the Croweaters' ability to score three goals against the strong breeze in the second quarter set up a first-up win.

While SA – missing key players Kobe Ryan, Nick Sadler, Harry Barnett and Will Paton due to Covid protocols – was outscored for the quarter, it laid a foundation to pile on the scoreboard pressure after the main break. And this was what coach Tony Bamford's charges did in the third quarter, booting 5.3 to the Allies' two behinds. Athletic Mattaes Phillipou was a strong contributor for SA with an equal game-high 24 disposals and two goals, while captain Adam D'Aloia (16 disposals, seven tackles), Billy Dowling (24 disposals) and Archie Lovelock (14 disposals and two goals) were strong influences. Key forward Isaac Keeler booted three goals in the 14.9-to-8.8 win.

The Croweaters worked hard to establish a nine-point half-time lead against Victoria Country after welcoming back Ryan, Sadler and Barnett.

But Victoria Country snared the lead when Oliver Hollands goaled 10 minutes into the third quarter and it held a three-point edge at the last break. Country's Toby McMullin kicked the only goal of the last term to push the break out to eight points with more than 15 minutes to play. SA surged forward time after time but added a frustrating seven behinds, including four misses from set shots. Ruckman Phoenix Foster soared for an outstanding overhead mark just inside the 50m arc to give his side one last chance in the 24th minute but his shot also missed.

D'Aloia led the way with 28 disposals and seven clearances, while Kelsey Rypstra was lively in attack with 15 disposals and an eye-catching snapped goal after spinning out of traffic. But there were no goals when they were needed in the last quarter, SA beaten 8.12 to 9.8.

GROUNDS OF THE PAST

BY ROBERT LAIDLAW

Footy action from Jubilee Oval in 1915.

One hosted a grand final. The other is an arena more often used for equestrian, dog shows and monster trucks. They have been long lost to SA footy but Jubilee Oval and Wayville Oval played important roles in the development of our game.

Jubilee Oval, established in 1895 when organised footy was just in its 19th season, at the back of Adelaide University near the River Torrens, hosted its first SA Football Association game on 7 May 1898, between Norwood and West Adelaide. Its final league game was on 16 July 1921, when West tackled South.

The most significant game played at the ground was the 1904 grand final – the only league premiership-decider played anywhere other than Adelaide Oval or Football Park. The grand final was switched to the ground because the SAFA was in dispute with the SA Cricket Association over use of Adelaide Oval. And it proved a stunning climax to the season, Norwood storming back from a 35-point three-quarter-time deficit to pip Port Adelaide by four points.

Jubilee Oval, which hosted many football games, cricket matches, soccer and rugby, as well as horse events associated with the Royal Adelaide Show, was bulldozed in 1945. The Show is what we all now associate with Wayville. West Adelaide used the oval there as its home ground from 1927, beating Norwood in the first league game at the ground, on May 7. The biggest game at Wayville Oval was on October 22 that year, when Westies, premiers of the newly-named SANFL, battled VFL premier Collingwood and a couple of legends of the game, the Red and Blacks' Bruce McGregor and the Magpies' Gordon Coventry, went head-to-head in front of 10,200 roaring fans. After West edged within eight points in the last quarter, Collingwood kicked clear to win by 28 points, Coventry bagging eight goals and dual Magarey Medallist McGregor booting four.

The ground also hosted harness racing, athletics, soccer and, in 1934, an interstate rugby union clash between SA and Victoria – a year after the rivals had faced off on Jubilee Oval.

Wayville Oval, also known as the Showgrounds, remained West's home until World War II. It then played its home games on Adelaide Oval until Richmond Oval was established in 1958.
